

Clariant, Spengler Building Architects: Wirth + Wirth, Basel

Clariant International AG
Rothausstrasse 61
Muttenz / Basel
Switzerland

Year completed: 2005

Furniture:
invitation, open up

The bench workplaces for one, two or four people as well as the meeting tables were created with the invitation system. open up is used as an office swivel chair. The rolling containers fitted with seating upholstery provide practical seats for spontaneous get-togethers of colleagues. Photos: © Wirth + Wirth / Lilli Kehl

At the Swiss offices of Clariant, an international chemicals manufacturer, a comprehensive space concept was implemented for the office areas. Communication which is oriented to processes and projects dominates everyday work and this is why every employee has his/her own bench or workstation – for teamwork. In the intermediate area, free spaces were made available for ad hoc meetings and discussions. Lounge and cafeteria zones are used for intentional relaxation and unforced communication.